Voices Of Sudan

Synopsis

100% of author profits go to wells, medicine and food!!! The country of Sudan is steeped in a dark history of religious persecution and genocide, bathed in constant chaos and turmoil, and touched with ongoing conflict. This photographic portrait of Sudan poignantly reveals the nations struggle to survive.

David Johnson is the co-founder and CTO of Nitobi, an Ajax component vendor and consulting firm. He has over eight years experience with Ajax related technologies such as XML, XSL and XMLHttpRequest, and has written articles for journals, magazines, conference papers, and for web publications such as JavaWorld.com and XML.com Andre Charland, co-founder, president and CEO of Nitobi, has been involved in Internet software development for the past eight years and has successfully executed over 100 development projects. He often speaks on Ajax and web usability, and maintains his own blog, captainajax.com. Alexei White is a Product Manager for Nitobi's suite of enterprise Ajax user interface components and has consulted with Fortune 500 companies implementing Ajax Solutions. He has written on Ajax development for Developer.com, Network World, and IT Solutions Journal, and has been quoted on CNN.com, Wired Magazine, and in eWeek on topics in Ajax development. Alexei is also the co-founder and developer of SayZu, an Ajax-powered polling and focus grouping service.

David has really captured the suffering and hope of the millions displaced, ravaged by war and genocide. He has done it in a way that makes it personal. His photography talent is phenomenal.

You would be hard pressed to find somebody who has ever heard David speak and still is not doing anything to support his efforts or the efforts of others involved in the fight for Sudan. Those of us who are lucky enough to know him and hear him on a regular basis know of his passion and heart, but those who are not lucky enough to have seen him, buy this book and gain understanding about the situation in Sudan. Please know that the cheaper you buy this book, however, the less money actually goes back to helping the people of Sudan. Do your research to find out how you can do more to support Silent Images or other causes dedicated to Sudan.

I personally know David Johnson and I must say that he made this book with not one ounce of himself in mind. It shows in the book and the photography within. Not to mention, all the profits (every penny) go towards building wells in Sudan. Some people talk about doing good, others simply do good. Thanks David and what an awesome book.

David Johnson has a tremendous talent for photography, and has truly captured the conditions of the Sudanese people. His images are incredibly beautiful and moving. In addition, the book is a great resource on learning how to help the Sudanese people.

I found this book in the photography section of our local bookstore. It was hard to sit and look at the photos, read the stories and not cry. I really enjoyed how he ended the book with the children having fun. What an eye opener to what's going on in Sudan. Thank you!

I went to college with David and this book shows all the passion for life and warmth he shared with all of us. It is hard to find a book that can move my students as much as it moved me, but this one did. His pictures tell a story and it is one worth telling.

I loved this book. It opens our eyes to the world at large and the needs in it. The pictures were beautiful and very informative.

Really enjoyed this book, it's photographs and stories, but most of all knowing that 100% of the proceeds go to the charity!
