Here's a pop-up that understands what the concept is all about. Using the ocean as their milieu, the Santoros (pop-up creators of Journey to the Moon, 2007, and Predators, 2008) provide solid information along with amazing visuals. Beginning with a 3-D re-creation of a tide pool, the book then moves to the open sea, where a whale rises out of the pages. An explanation of light zones underwater is illustrated by an anglerfish that lives 3,000 feet below the water's surface. Views of a coral reef and life in the frozen sea complete the treatment. Fact-filled fun.

When I got this pop-up book online along with PREDATORS I thought I would give both books 4 stars but after I looked at both books again recently I will now give them 5!! WILD OCEANS is truly marvelous! Each pop-up scene has special 3D creatures, often suspended above a pop-up underwater scene and swinging back and forth and bobbing up and down to give the effect of swimming underwater! A crab bobs up and down in an underwater coral scene on the first pages! On THE OPEN SEA pages a Blue whale's tail rises above the waves when you open these pages! And 2 playful dolphins jumped out of the pop-up waves! The next pages titled MONSTERS OF MIDNIGHT is painted in dark colours to represent the deepest depths of the sea and a pop-up Anglerfish with his own fishing lure in front of his mouth swims face first toward the reader! THE CORAL KINGDOM pages has a tropical looking coral scene with a open mouth 3D pop-up shark suspended from the pop-up coral while a smaller green sea turtle appears to swim underneath the coral and when you wiggle the pages both the swimming turtle and the coral fish above him appear to be swimming in the pop-up space!! And finally a pop-up leopard seal appears to escape the jaws of a menacing Orca whale while a bobbing penguin swims toward the reader in the 3D manner of the other suspended creatures in this full colour watercolour detailed book! Lucio and Meera Santoro have managed to come up with their own special style of nature pop-up books with "Revolutionary technology" as they call it! And special pull tabs and corner pop-ups reveal more info and pop-up under sea creatures Highly recommended!

Apparently pop-up books have come a long long way since I was a kid. This book is amazing and basically a work of art. The details of the pop-ups are breathtaking, and the book itself has impressed every person who has seen it. Every page is a new theme: from tides to the dark depths of the ocean. The book is also educational and informative with facts and information on each page. I have apparently entered a new generation of pop-up books. If only I could make every book a pop-up book like this, everything would be so much better.
