All American Rose Selections: An Organization Who Care The Roses

Synopsis

All American Rose Selections - An Organization Who Care the Roses Here is a preview: Did you realize that there's an organization of rose enthusiasts who actually care that the roses you purchase live up to the highest standards of quality? Well there is and most people don't even know this organization exists. Most consumers probably take for granted a rose's beauty and heartiness because they think that's just the nature of the rose. After all, how else could this elegant's beauty have survived through countless centuries? Well it might surprise you to know that not all roses are worthy of the AARS Seal of Approval. If a rose cannot measure up to the strict standards set forth by the AARS, the All-American Rose Selections, then it won't get this seal that since 1983 has become synonymous with quality in the world of roses. This not-for-profit organization of introducers and growers of roses prides itself in evaluating roses not only on how well they look, but also how well they can deal with various changes in climate and even how well they can ward off the peskiest of pests and disease. And READ this book, if you want more!
